

BIZPHYX ASSISTS 7 “WOMEN OF COLOR” COMPANIES ACHIEVE TL 9000 AND ISO 9001 CERTIFICATION

DALLAS, July 12, 2010– BIZPHYX, the nation’s leading TL 9000 quality management consulting firm is pleased to announce that 7 new clients have achieved their TL 9000 and ISO 9001 certification. In 2009, BIZPHYX designed a quality management training program for AT&T’s Women of Color Businesses (WOCB) Growth Initiative. This initiative was developed by AT&T to coach and mentor a small group of women owned companies in a variety of business disciplines. A key component of the program was to assist these businesses in obtaining dual TL 9000 and ISO 9001 quality management certifications. After a year of hard work, all of the companies that participated in this initiative have completed their audits and obtained TL 9000 and ISO 9001 certifications.

The 7 companies and their respective Presidents include: A2Q2-President, Kim Le, AMG-President, Harriet Stricklen, ADPRO-President, Tracy Standoff, MSA Global-President, Madinah Ali, SMS-President, Gloria Robbins, Universal Network Development Corporation-President, Cindy Kazee and Zero Waste Solutions-President, Shavila Singh. BIZPHYX helped all of these WOC companies achieve their certification through a yearlong webinar based training program. The mentees will be graduating on July 20, 2010 at the AT&T San Ramon Administrative Center in San Ramon, California.

“We are so proud of these WOC companies,” said Sue Clancy, President of BIZPHYX. “By achieving these certifications, our clients will gain a significant competitive advantage in securing corporate contracts.” BIZPHYX has also been selected to provide TL 9000 training and education to the Disabled Veteran Business Enterprises (DVBES) participating in AT&T’s new supplier diversity program “Operation Hand Salute”.
